Route cut riles residents

by Elaine Wilson

A proposal by Greyhound to reduce the number of daily bus stops in towns along the rural route between Calgary and Red Deer has generated considerable tension between customers, Greyhound representatives and agents.

A public information meeting was held in Didsbury July 14 to allow affected parties to voice concerns and to consider alternatives which would lessen anticipated complications following proposed cuts in service.

Greyhound said simple economic realities motivated the proposed cut-backs.

A request was made to clarify the government's role in the proceedings. When asked if the meeting constituted an appeal, Motor Transport Service representative Al Smythe pointed out there was nothing to appeal until a decision was arrived at. He went on to outline the agenda and explain the process.

"The request to amend the [local Greyhound bus] schedule was posted and advertised," Smythe said. "We received in our office in Red Deer a number of concerns and calls. Subsequent to July 5 [when the advertising closed] we looked at all the concerns that were provided to us." As a result, Greyhound was asked to hold a public meeting to explain the change Smythe said.

"Based on what we hear tonight, a decision will be made on whether we approve the application to withdraw the service or proceed to a public forum, at which time the board will get together and everybody who's interested will be provided an opportunity to speak, including Greyhound.

Concerns about lost connections were allayed by Greyhound representatives who promised to ensure adjustment would be made to mesh with the altered schedules.

Several businessmen pointed out that reduction in service would force them to use alternate methods of freight transport. Greyhound representatives responded that although they handled a heavy volume of freight they were not a 'hotshot' service.

Other concerns included forced lengthy stopovers and unworkable timing for passengers due to cancelled routes.

"It really doesn't matter to our businesses whether that part is in there at five a.m.; they're not open at five o'clock in the morning," one woman

Privatization sensible to local businessman

by Janice Harrington

The provincial government's plan to privatize motor vehicle office in large centre is a sensible plan according to a local businessman.

Vance van Dam, owner of Vanda Agencies which has offered motor vehicle registration services privately since 1984, said putting licensing functions in the private sector will probably improve service to the public.

"When something like this comes to the private sector, we feel we try to do it better and give the extra service," van Dam said. "They are our customers and we like to see them come back."

Registration services have been offered by private businesses in smaller centres across Alberta from nearly a decade, van Dam said through their agreement with the province, the businesses are offered a commission for each registration service and are allowed to charge a $1 service fee directly to the customer to help cover business costs involved in offering the service. van Dam is unsure how that system will change when privatization comes into effect.

But while van Dam is pleased with the idea of privatization he is also somewhat concerned about how the decentralization will affect his licensing service.

The judge overturned a guilty plea in a theft over $1000 case in Didsbury Provincial Court last week.

Judge Davies set aside the guilty plea after listening to an explanation from the accused, Kerry Lacombe, about how the incident leading to the charge came about.

Judge Davies said he felt Lacombe had a defense for the charge and set a trial date for September 14.

A man was fined $200 after pleading guilty to a charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Darcy Dole was charged in June after a parked car was hit and the driver failed to notify the owner of the accident.

Dole was also charged with careless driving. He plead not guilty to the charge and will face trial on the matter on September 14.

A Carstairs man has been ordered to continue psychiatric counselling after pleading guilty to possession of a dangerous weapon.

The charge arose last fall after Martin Nysten threatened to kill himself in front of his estranged wife at their former home outside of Carstairs.

The court heard that Nysten was distraught over divorce proceedings and had broken into the family gun cabinet threatening to shoot himself with a rifle.

Nysten was given a suspended sentence with a probation order to continue the counselling he has been taking for depression. Nysten was also prohibited from possessing firearms for 2 years.

A preliminary trial into charges of uttering death threats has been delayed until next month because the judge did not want to hear the case.

Richard Ferber, who was convicted of murdering his wife in 1985, will remain in custody until August 10 when the preliminary trial will be held. Judge Davies, who sat in provincial court last week, said he did not feel he could preside over Ferber's preliminary trial on these charges because he had acted as prosecutor at Ferber's murder trial.

Ferber was found guilty on the murder charge and spent the last 9 years in prison. He was out on parole when the death threat charges were laid in May. Ferber, 53, has continued in custody since that time.

Angry crowd

Greyhound officials faced an angry crowd last week when they held a public meeting to discuss the proposed cuts to the Calgary Red Deer morning run. The meeting was held to try and reach a compromise on the cuts, but resulted in little.

d, adding, "Seniors, or people who don't drive, who have doctor's appointments or other business, are not going to get on a bus to go to Red Deer in the middle of the night."

"Rural Alberta is every bit as important as the [city outlets]. Rather than reduce the service, improve the service," one man suggested, adding that Greyhound should consider increasing sales on financially declining runs through promotion before resorting to outright cancellation.

"Sales promotions haven't worked," said Roger Pike, Vice President of Government/Industry Relations for Greyhound. "You adjust your cost to your revenue in your own businesses," he said. "That's what we're doing."

Questions regarding Greyhound's commitment to service versus economic considerations were raised. Some asserted Greyhound's decision to cut back local bus service reflected a short-sighted concentration on fiscal gain which would cause long term losses due to decisions not to patronize Greyhound in the future. Greyhound representative Roger Pike responded that Greyhound was doing their best to maintain good service, and added that service control hinged largely on Greyhound agents. Olds depot agent Brian Maetche said that the proposed cuts would result in decreased commissions which would, in turn, reduce service levels and could cause some agents to bail out entirely.

Greyhound representatives asked for suggestions to decide which scheduled stop would cause the least disturbance following cancellation.

"The other alternative is not to cancel anything," one man suggested. "Your franchise is based on the fact that the runs that make money subsidize the rest. These runs will never pay for themselves, they weren't expected to. Now all of a sudden you say, 'We've got to make money on these.'"

As the meeting wore on, the agenda of concurring on essential bus routes to be saved deteriorated into a flurry of caustic remarks.

Motor Vehicles representative Al Smythe said, "I was hoping tonight that there may have been some middle ground to achieve and some alternatives to explore that may have at least achieved a majority. Clearly that isn't going to happen tonight. I will be recommending a hearing process."

Smythe said it could be several weeks before the hearing was scheduled, but advised the date would be advertised in local newspapers.

Greyhound representative Roger Pike noted after the meeting that any decision arrived at was "not written in stone." Pike stated terminated routes could be reinstated at a future date should economic conditions improve.

"I guess it depends on what kind of support staff they will have," he said. "Right now, if we have a problem we can't solve at our office, we just pick up the phone and call Calgary. We have to wait and find out more details to see if we can still access that information."

van Dam said the private issuers association is still waiting for final details on the privatization and expects the group to meet to discuss them once they become available.

"I also understand that we will be able to access all kinds of registry services through this agreement; things like land title and vital stats. You just have to get the software," he said.

van Dam added that although these services will be moved from government auspices, the public really has nothing to fear about loss of privacy.

"We are still not able to access a lot of information about someone unless you have their written permission," he said. "And any information is still not available to the general public."

More details on the decentralization are expected later this month.

Clarification

The Didsbury Court of Revision is not normally held each year after tax notices are mailed as was stated in last week's Review.

Court of Revision is generally held during the first week of April as assessment is completed on time.

Only appeal of the property assessment is considered under the Court of Revision.

Rink work begins

by Janice Harrington

Excavation work on the site of the future curling rink began last week with donated labor and services.

A back hoe and dump trucks began taking dirt and debris away from the curling rink's new location at the northwest end of the arena complex last week. Volunteer labor from both the Didsbury Curling Club and the Didsbury Agricultural Society is being used to help dismantle the logscout hall adjacent to the site.

Vair Whitlow, President of the Ag Society said workers hope to finish the outside structure of the new building before winter so interior work can be finished by the spring.

"We are hoping we can be done in time to hold some Trade Fair stuff in here next April," he said.

With the completion of the new curling rink and the eventual demolition of the old one on the south end of the complex, plans for parking spaces and landscaping can be carried out. According to Didsbury Recreational Director Ken Luck some of the land excavated from the curling rink site is being used to help level the area where parking will be.

With a spring completion date planned for construction, Luck said the recreation department hopes to finish off landscaping and parking lots by late next year.

Recall on Soyolac infant formula powder

The Health Protection Branch (HPB) of the Department of Health is warning consumers not to use any lots of Soyolac, Soy Infant Formula Powder in 400 g cans.

This advisory extends a May 21 warning concerning a specific lot of Soyolac found to be contaminated with Salmonella bacteria. Following an investigation of the U.S. processing plant, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has advised that any lot of this product, manufactured by Nutricia Inc. of California, may be contaminated with Salmonella. Consumption of this product, if contaminated, could result in severe illness in infants.

Nutricia Inc. has voluntarily initiated a recall of the product from the Canadian market place. This product is distributed across Canada.

Consumers are advised to examine their supplies of infant formula and to stop further use of Soyolac, Soy Infant Formula Powder. Any unopened cans may be returned to the point of purchase.

HPB is monitoring the effectiveness of the recall.

RCMP report

On June 28, 1993 at approximately 1:00 a.m., Didsbury R.C.M.P. were called to an alarm at the Hi-Ho gas station. Upon arrival, it was noted that the front door was smashed in an undetermined amount of cigarettes were taken. A short time following the break-in, Didsbury R.C.M.P. received a call from a concerned citizen who offered information about the break-in. The information eventually led to the arrest of a local youth who was charged in the incident.

The above example highlights the importance of the community in solving local crimes. If more people came forward with information perhaps more incidents could be solved.

During the month of June, Didsbury R.C.M.P. responded to a total of 336 complaints. Of these, 63 Criminal Code files were opened including 10 Break and Enters, 23 Motor Vehicle Accidents were reported including one Fatal Motor Vehicle Accident, 33 Traffic Tickets, 13 warnings and 11 Liquor Control Act Tickets were issued.

A good choice

It was refreshing to see a more unique and workable idea for cutting the deficit and dealing with the debt come out of the provincial government last week.

After more bad news about cuts that hospitals can ill afford, the decision to allow registry services to be handled by private businesses was the one ounce of good news in an otherwise gloomy and ill advised cost cutting proposal.

Albertans should be concerned about the way hospitals and the health care system have been targeted by this government. They are putting our own health at risk. But deciding to transfer a secondary, albeit essential service to the private sector is a good idea.

Rural Albertans have known for a long time how well motor vehicle registration can be handled by local companies. The line ups are smaller and the service friendlier. For the price of an extra $1, it has certainly been worth it. We can laugh at the larger centre residents how are getting up in arms, the same way we have over post office privatization.

In a small company, putting vehicle licensing, land title, vital statistics and other registry services on the menu can only lead to better service than most have received from impersonal and weary Alberta government staff in motor vehicle offices. It should also become a lot easier for customers. Instead of spending an afternoon waiting in a line up that must service half a city, Calgarians or Edmontonians can instead walk into the closest business and spend only a few minutes of their valuable time. That means time and money saved.

Concerns about privacy are moot. Just because staff looking into a computer which contains all the registry information about Alberta residents are private rather than government employees does not mean personal information will be leaked. In fact it may be the opposite. Private businesses will be more likely to treat the customers with respect and confidentiality when they are relying on that customer's dollar to fund their pay cheques than government employees might. And as the agreement stands with rural businesses and the Alberta government, all the necessary precautions are taken to prevent that type of breach in the first place. There is no reason to expect that will change.

Despite that fact that we as Canadians have relied on our government to supply such services as these in the past, handing them over to private businesses will not mean a cut in service. Anyone who has spent 2 or more hours waiting in a line up at the Motor Vehicles branch, or spent up to two weeks waiting for information from Vital Statistics will appreciate the change.

It is a better alternative than straight cuts. Now we just have to see how to implant more of that creativity in the axe wielders when they are dealing with the health care budget.

Gained at the G-7 summit

Dear Editor:

Last week I gave you a brief explanation of the G-7 and GATT - this week I would like to tell you what was actually accomplished at Prime Minister Kim Campbell's first meeting with the G-7 leaders.

First, Prime Minister Campbell had an opportunity to discuss in-person with President Bill Clinton a few items of importance to Canada. After their meeting the President publicly apologized to Canada for not giving the Prime Minister advance notice of his intention to bomb Iraq on June 26th. He also agreed to appoint someone in the White House whose specific job will be to monitor Canada-U.S. trade. The two leaders also discussed trade in some detail - especially wheat, sugar, softwood lumber and beer. They also discussed the NAFTA and the side deals on labor and environment being sought by the President. The President reaffirmed his commitment to NAFTA and said he hopes to have the legislation through Congress by the end of this summer.

On another front, the Prime Minister was instrumental in having a support for the United Nations conference on migratory fish stocks included in the summit's final economic declaration. These talks are now underway in New York, and are extremely important to Canada.

The Prime Minister also had the opportunity to advance, leader-to-leader, the interests of Canada, and to develop relations with other leaders that will be helpful in dealing with ongoing issues between Canada and their countries.

Another alternative

Dear Editor:

Just before old governments that have been in power for too long wear out and die, they invariably come up with a new leader who promises re-birth and renewal. The new leader talks boldly of embarking on a new course, while the retiring leader is permitted to cram the ship of state with last minute patronage appointments.

Turner did it with Trudeau, as Campbell just did with Mulroney. Luckily, voters aren't fooled when this happens. Turner got the boot, as is likely with Campbell.

But who do we turn to for a new government, a new direction? Back to the Liberals again? Back to another Trudeau-style autocracy? Usually a political party waits until it's elected before doling out patronage plums. But the crafty Chretien, drooling in anticipation of a fall election victory over Campbell's Tory re-treads, has already begun to reward his friends.

Candidates who were duly elected by rank and file Liberals are having their nominations cancelled, and are replaced by Chretien's hand-picked appointees. So much for democracy in the Liberal party. Apparently, the Liberals haven't learned anything is their nine year exile from office.

Canadians tired of alternating between Liberal and Conservative corruption haven't had a lot to choose from until now. Mel Hurtig's National Party of Canada is a new party, with new people who have new ideas, new principles, and the new policies voters are asking for. Call their toll-free number 1-800-561-2302, and find out for yourself. You'll be glad you did.

Message for Farm Safety Week

Dear Editor:

It is my pleasure to help promote and celebrate the 21st Annual National Farm Safety Week. This year's theme, "Toddlers need to be protected too", seems to me an especially appropriate one.

If one thinks back, most parents can remember the countless times they offered their children that familiar advice, "play safe". For those of us who raise our children on farms -- a dangerous work environment -- our children's ability to play safely has always been contingent upon the strength of our commitment to working safely.

Tractors, combines, heavy machinery and silos are all essential tools in the performance of a producer's job. They can also pose serious risks to a child's safety if used improperly, left unattended, or ill-maintained. In a time when we are all working harder than ever to ensure a prosperous future for our families and for Canadian agriculture as a whole, we must not do so at the expense of our most precious national resource. As governments, as industry representatives and as parents, one of our main priorities must be to preserve our children's safety.

By focussing this year's campaign on the need to protect young children from the hazards of the farm environment, my hope is that organizers will help prevent the heartbreak which can result from carelessness in the workplace.

I would like to commend all of you who continue to demand nothing short of excellence in safety standards every day of the year.

Charles Mayer

Minister of Agriculture
Government of Canada

Farm death rate too high

Dear Editor:

Farming is considered to be one of the most hazardous occupations. The accidental death rate on the farm is estimated to be 20 percent higher than the national average making the number of fatalities higher for farming than for any other industry.

Accidents can disrupt the best of plans, deplete profits and in many instances deprive farmers of their livelihood. Successful farmers take time to get machinery into safe, efficient operating condition which is a safeguard to ensure a successful harvesting season. Farmers must incorporate safety in their management planning. Annual maintenance to machinery can minimize downtime during work.

To mark the 21st annual National Farm Safety Week, July 25-31, 1993, we have chosen the theme "Toddlers need to be protected too". The objective of this year's campaign is to educate Canadians of all the safety elements of having children on the farm.

National Farm Safety Week is a campaign to highlight safety on the farm. Take this opportunity to become more "Safety Conscious". Be aware of the ordinary hazards of daily life, and be prepared for the unexpected. Know what to do in an emergency! As a farmer, you have a responsibility to act safely to protect yourself and the children around you!

Sincerely,

Emile-J. Therien

CMHC releases Canadian housing statistics

After five consecutive years of decline, housing starts in Canada saw their first improvement last year, according to the 1992 edition of Canadian Housing Statistics, released today by Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

Low interest rates, buyers' market conditions and two federal housing programs led to an increase in all major types of construction for a total of 168,271 units last year.

Residential renovation spending totalled $17.3 billion in 1992, representing nearly half (46.1 percent) of the total residential construction expenditure.

The number of mortgage loans increased by 9.4 percent, while the dollar value of homes purchased went up by almost 19 percent. This reflects higher house values as well as higher loan to value ratios, the report states.

The report also shows, however, that single-parent families led by women are seven times more likely to be in core housing need than two-parent households.

Seventy-three percent, or 850,000 of all households in need, were renters. Seniors and single-parent families are most likely to be in core housing need, the report shows.

According to the report, the overall cost of housing was unchanged last year, despite some regional variations. The 1992 New House Price Index recorded no gain. In 1991, the index posted a 6.8 percent loss and a 1.4 percent increase in 1990.

International migration will continue to make a strong contribution to Canada's population growth, the report adds. Just how strong will depend on whether births continue to rise despite the overall aging of the Canadian population.

The report covers activity in building, renovation, and mortgage lending, as well as housing need, land and housing costs and the demographic aspects of housing demand. It serves as a useful planning tool for the housing and financial industries.

Alberta internes and residents oppose 'freeze' on new doctors

Edmonton and Calgary - Proposals to put a freeze on all new doctors could severely limit access to medical care in Alberta.

The Alberta Medical Association (AMA) is pursuing an 'immediate' freeze to prevent new doctors, including those trained in Alberta, from practising medicine in the province. Alberta's internes and residents, represented by the Professional Association of Internes and Residents of Alberta (PAIRA), are concerned the proposal would mean lower health care standards in smaller communities, and would affect critical services in urban centres.

While the AMA has said this should be short-term measure, the process is unspecified and the precedent alarming.

"In towns where there is already a shortage of doctors, the health care service would suffer," said Dr. Michele Bjornson a PAIRA executive member and a resident at the Alberta Children's Hospital in Calgary. "Physicians practising in such towns are already overworked and people would need to continue committing to see a doctor or going without medical attention."

There are now 150 doctors completing their residencies in Alberta, and many could be driven out by a freeze.

"It's estimated that fully one-third of the family medicine residents coming out of the University of Alberta this year are planning to work in rural areas, and at the University of Calgary that number is probably higher," said Dr. Jim Williams, chairman of the association's negotiating committee.

"By making the recommendation, the AMA is restricting access, particularly in more remote, isolate areas," he said. "We have Alberta-trained doctors ready to serve many of those communities now."

PAIRA, which represents Alberta's 660 internes and residents, asked the AMA Board to exclude Alberta-trained internes and residents from the proposed freeze. The AMA Board turned down this request.

Dr. Steve Wood, president-elect of PAIRA, expressed frustration with the timing of the AMA proposal.

"We've been fully co-operating with the AMA's Task Force on Physician Supply. The AMA board's proposal could actually subvert task force recommendations."

The AMA proposal for a freeze could also neutralize the effects of working initiatives like the Rural Physician Action Plan, designed to bring physicians into rural communities suffering from a shortage of health care services.

"Things are starting to get better, with more people going to the rural areas," Dr. Bjornson said. "There seems to be a trend that more people are going to practise in rural areas and this proposal could instantly stop that trend.

"Any kind of arbitrary freeze on Alberta-trained doctors is unacceptable to our Association, and we believe it will be unacceptable to Alberta communities," Dr. Williams said.

Communities expecting a doctor this year - High River, Olds, Didsbury, Whitecourt, Black Diamond, Grande Prairie, Strathmore, Wabamun, Vulcan, Brooks, Banff and Boyle Macauley Centre - Edmonton.

Crime of the week

The accused, Ali Rasai (Rasael) is presently charged with two counts of sexual assault within the City of Red Deer. The Iranian immigrant presents himself as having medical training and a black belt in karate. Rasai gains the confidence of his victims by approaching the women and telling them he likes their looks and would like to involve them in a self-defence video.

On August 9th, 1991 a Canada Wide Warrant was issued for Rasai and his description is as follows: Dark complexion, Height 170 cm. - 5'7", Weight 76 kg. - 168 lbs., brown eyes, black hair - curly, moustache (at the time).

This subject is also wanted in Edmonton, Alberta and Australia for similar offences.

If you have any information regarding the whereabouts of the above noted subject, call CrimeStoppers now at 340-TIPS, that is 340-8477, or toll free at 1-800-661-TIPS. You never have to give your name and if your tip leads to an arrest, you qualify for a cash award of up to $2,000. CrimeStoppers serves all of Central Alberta.

Employment in Alberta continues to rise

On a seasonally adjusted basis, Alberta's unemployment rate declined last month, down to 9.3 from 9.5 percent in May. On an unadjusted basis, full-time employment in Alberta increased by 21,800 in June. During the same period, part-time employment also increased; it went up by 9,900, resulting in a total gain of 31,600 new jobs. Employment in June reached an all time high of 1,291,500.

"This is the second straight month that Alberta has seen significant employment gains," said Jack Ady, Minister of Advanced Education and Career Development. "Alberta now has the second lowest unemployment rate in Canada, and the prospects for continuing employment growth look promising. Alberta's student unemployment picture remains positive," said Ady. "Student employment levels rose by 8,000 new jobs, a 7.1 percent increase over this time last year."

The continued recovery was led by employment growth in the goods-producing sector. Strong employment gains were recorded in Mining, 3,400; Manufacturing 1,700; and Construction, 2,700. Several industries in the service-producing sector also contributed to employment growth. These included Transportation and Storage, 2,300; Finance and Insurance, 1,900; Public Administration 5,900; Education 2,600; Accommodation, Food and Beverage, 6,400; and Other Services 8,100.

Every bottle of Bacardi Amber rum still begins the way it did over 130 years ago.

Down where palm trees sway and sugar cane is still cut by hand, every drop of Bacardi amber rum has its beginnings. Just as it was in 1862, molasses made from pure sugar cane is first fermented and distilled. Then it is aged in oak barrels, and expertly blended to attain that smooth, full flavour that could only be Bacardi amber rum.

AGRICULTURE

Canola demand looks positive

Domestic crush and export demand for canola heading into the next crop year looks very positive says an Alberta Agriculture market analyst.

"Current crush levels indicate Canadian processors will process about 1.85 million tonnes in 1992-93," says Larry Rund. For 1993-94, a domestic crush of 2 million tonnes is very possible given some capacity expansion and the good demand for canola products."

On the export front, Japan should return as a strong buyer next year he adds, after having to purchase some canola other places after the drought and snow damaged crop of last year. Japan brought from Europe.

Dry weather across the Prairies during May and early June and cool weather in Manitoba led to concerns about potential yield loss and late crop maturity.

China and Australia notes Ruud. "However, European rapeseed production is forecast to drop four percent this year further tightening their domestic supplies."

As well, the Mexican market looks promising. "Increased per capita consumption and reduced Polish supplies could mean Canadian sales of 150,000 to 200,000 tonnes into Mexico next year," he says.

The current canola market itself has been as volatile as the weather. "As with the feed market, canola futures have been holding a weather premium on prices," says Ruud. Dry weather across the Prairies during May and early June and cool weather in Manitoba led to concerns about potential yield loss and late crop maturity.

The U.S. soybean market has also been buoyed by weather concerns. Ten to 15 percent of the soybean crop might not be planted or have to be reseeded because of excess moisture.

Markets could move down with moisture across the Praries and improved conditions in the U.S. resulting in fall canola futures at $290 per tonne, or just below. While Ruud isn't predicting much lower prices, he says basis levels could widen. "With the potential for record production, a lot of canola will be available in the fall and basis levels could be pressured."

Some positive news in hog market

With a lost decision in the ongoing hog countervail saga and the prospective of falling prices ahead, pork producers can bask in some good news says an Alberta Agriculture market analyst.

"Preliminary trade data for the first five months of 1993 show a 15 percent increase in fresh, frozen and processed pork exports to the U.S. compared to last year," says Ron Gletz.

"This increase more than makes up for reduced exports to Japan and other nations in 1993. Total exports are up six per cent from 1992," he adds.

Another positive, although perhaps short lived, Canadian markets were able to post higher prices during June. "U.S. slaughter markets didn't rally, but the lower exchange rate kept our prices higher," he notes.

Additional optimism comes from the surprising June 1 United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) Hog Inventory Report. It suggested the current U.S. herd expansion may be drawing to a close. Total hog inventories in the U.S. were up only one per cent compared to June 1, 1992, and breeding stock inventories were actually down two percent.

Despite the positive inventory report, Gletz foresees average Alberta producer payment prices dropping through the late summer and fall months with significant increases in U.S. pork production. He predicts August prices at $1.45 per kilogram (dressed) falling to $1.40 in September and down to $1.25 by November.

Check-off challenge will go to court

The right of the Alberta Cattle Commission (ACC) to collect a non-refundable $1.50 per head "check-off" on sales of cattle will be challenged in the Alberta Court of Queen's Bench in Calgary this September.

The Commission's announced plan to hold a producer vote this fall on the issue is premature. The Alberta Agricultural Products Marketing Council supervises the Cattle Commission as well as other provincial marketing boards and commissions. On June 28, 1993, Council indicated there would be no vote unless the Cattle Commission first resolves the terms of the vote with cattlemen sponsoring the court challenge as well as with the Western Stock Growers' Association, the Alberta Cattle Feeders Association and the Northern Alberta Cow/Calf Association.

The Cattle Commission had refused to take part in a mediation process sponsored by Marketing Council and designed to come up with a voting procedure acceptable to all parties. The ACC opted instead to conduct closed-door negotiations with the former Minister of Agriculture, Ernie Isley, which resulted in the proposal for the fall vote. So far, no one has accepted Isley's proposal.

Cattlemen supporting the court action include a number of former Cattle Commission directors who are not prepared to go along with a producer vote unless the ACC first signs an agreement guaranteeing that it will be bound by the outcome of the vote, that the vote will be conducted impartially, and that check-off funds will not be used to support either side's position in the vote.

The challengers take the position that the current non-refundable check-off is illegal unless it is first approved by a producer plebiscite in accordance with a 1987 law. They are concerned that the Cattle Commission has become too controlled by its paid bureaucracy, and that a refundable check-off would make the ACC more efficient and more responsive to producer concerns. They are also concerned with the $200,000 the ACC has reportedly spent on lawyers' fees as a result of the Court action, when the issue should have been settled years ago by plebiscite.

The Cattle Commission is one of only two commissions that charge a non-refundable check-off without having conducted a plebiscite. The ACC check-off was first set at $0.10 per head in 1970 and has risen to $1.50 per head today. Cattlemen's organizations in other western provinces do not charge a compulsory, non-refundable check-off.

BUSINESS

Drugstore responds to customers

by Janice Harrington

Responding to his customers' needs has always been the focus of Bill Ward's business plan.

That response was what caused him to switch from IDA to the Value Drug Mart system and what fuels the goods and services he and business partner and wife Margo offer in their store.

Since first opening the Didsbury store in 1978, the Wards have looked to customer service first in deciding what to sell and how to sell it.

"It has been a challenge," Bill said. "The face of pharmacy has changed so much in the last 15 years. It's a real challenge to keep up."

But keep up they have. Since opening their 4000 square foot store in 1978, they have expanded twice and brought in a widely varied mix of products. Listening to their customers have helped to make Ward's Value Drug Mart a successful venture, even throughout the recession.

"It is our philosophy to talk to people one on one, that's why no tie," Bill said. "People tend to look at most pharmacists in their white coats standing on a platform and it makes them clam up. We have always had a good rapport with our customers. That's how we get a good feel for what they want from us."

The rapport and the compliance to customers' needs have helped to build the Wards a strong business with 13 full and part time employees and a wide range of goods, from prescription drugs to greeting cards. That variety and shopping with friends atmosphere has helped keep the business strong and growing. But while business is good, Bill said they have no plans for expansion any time soon.

"We have nothing more planned for the future," he said. "Right now we are just trying to keep up."

Responsiveness key

Bill Ward prides his business on responding to customers' needs, be it in the pharmacy or the rest of the store. Currently he employs 13 staff.

OLDS

Olds Fair '93 better than ever

by Elaine Wilson

From the minute you slice into your complimentary pancakes courtesy of Olds Co-op at 7:30 a.m. August 5 until you watch the last explosion of fireworks in front of the grandstand August 7, you'll be kept hopping trying to take in the wide range of activities planned for the 1993 Olds Fair.

An adult day pass runs $5, while a three day pass costs $10. Kids aged 6 to 18 will pay $3. for a day pass, with the three day pass running $6. Those 5 and under get in free. The pass entitles you to take in all activities and exhibits on the grounds including the nightly grandstand show.

The parade will begin Thursday August 5 at 10:00 a.m., and the midway will open at 12 noon and run every day until the exhibits closely nightly at 11:00 p.m.

The new covered grandstand should prove considerably more comfortable than its predecessor, and will seat over 2,000 onlookers.

The 1993 grandstand show promises to be the best ever, kicking off with pony chariot races starting at 6:30 p.m. nightly, followed by mule races and pony chuckwagons. Thursday night's stage show will feature "Mad Hatter" Ray Parker doing a lip sync act, followed by the Christian Cowboys' country gospel jamboree. Friday night's stage show includes illusionist James Grant and country show band Lynn Case and 22X. Those attending Saturday's grandstand performance will be treated to the considerable talents of country singers Lisa Brokop and Gary Fjellgaard.

"Lisa Brokop is a well-known country talent and Gary Fjellgaard performed with Dolly Parton at the Calgary Stampede this year," Olds Agricultural Society director Kathleen Windsor said.

"There's plenty for kids to do," Windsor said. In addition to the lure of the midway which opens daily at noon, live entertainers will be on stage in the curling rink with comedy and magic acts every day at 2 p.m. on the Alpha Stage in the curling rink. The Olds Municipal Library will be providing puppet shows and stories at regular intervals throughout the afternoon.

Bryn Thiessen will be presenting cowboy poetry on the Alpha stage every day of the fair at 5 p.m.

County talent scholarships will be awarded at the Evergreen Hall on Friday afternoon at 1:30. Stock dog competitions will run in the early afternoon all three days in front of the grandstand, with Olds college providing the stock.

If you're looking for sure-fire entertainment, check out an event that's been dubbed "one of the most hilarious events of the fair", listed in the program simply as the Livestock Feeders Derby. This "derby" involves garden tractors, bales and wagons and a passle of contestants who will be laughing too hard to concentrate fully on the race. Don't miss the Livestock Feeders Derby which will run at 3 p.m. Thursday, in front of the grandstand.

Heavy Horse competitions will run daily including a heavy horse pull at 1:30 on Friday and heavy horse hitch classes at 11:00 a.m. Saturday, both in front of the grandstand.

Last year's prizewinning contestants who were recently featured in a spread in a national magazine will be on hand, along with contestants eager to unseat the champs as they display their culinary skills, handicraft talents and horticultural achievements in the Creative Arts section located in the curling rink.

The Junior Beef Cattle show is slated for 2:30 p.m. in the beef show ring in the infield. The Beef Cattle show will also run at 1:00 p.m. Friday and 12 noon Saturday in the infield. Various livestock competitions run daily at various sites on the grounds.

The Alberta Provincial 4-H Draft Horse Achievement Day starts at 1:00 p.m. in the heavy horse halter show ring. Every day at 4:00 p.m., you can catch the Mountain View Country Dancers strutting their stuff on the Creative Arts Stage in the curling rink.

To close out the day, the beer gardens will open at 12 noon daily and run through to 11 p.m. in the evening featuring live music on the main ice surface.

CREMONA / WATER VALLEY

Breakfast to kick off Water Valley Days

The organizing of the annual Water Valley Days is well under way. August 14th and 15th will be action packed in Water Valley. On both days the concession, mixed slow pitch tournament, Steele Scouts presentation and miniature golf will operate. Organizers hope to bring in children's videos as well.

Saturday, August 14th will kick off with the annual pancake breakfast starting at 7 a.m. at the Water Valley hall. As in the past, there will be a silver collection for this event. Plenty of sausages, hashbrowns, pancakes and coffee will definitely prepare the crowd for the parade which starts at 10 a.m.

Participants in the parade will line up at 9 a.m. Judging for the various classes will commence at 9:30 a.m. Joining us again this year will be the Steele Scouts, Boots & Saddle Club, bicycle entrants and antique cars. A new addition will be The Cruzen Canines from Calgary. If you wish to enter a float, or have a comic or unique entry or Monica at 637-3902.

Throughout Saturday other activities have been planned. Chinook Creative Arts will be hosting an Art & Craft Sale combined with a bake sale at the Library/Water Valley school. At the arena the Steele Scouts will perform and The Boots & Saddle Club will host a gymkhana open to non-members as well. A fee of $5 will be required for this event. The Cruzen Canines will conduct an agility and fly-ball competition which is a must to see! The men only cake baking contest, watermelon eating and famous Mountain Man contest will take place on Saturday as well.

The BBQ supper (the best in the county!) starts at 5:30 p.m. Prices will be: Adults $7, Seniors $6, 12 & under $3.50 and 6 yrs. and under $1.

Midnight Express will be supplying the music for the dance. Happy hour is from 8 - 9 p.m. with the dance starting at 9 p.m. Cost is $10 per family or $2 per person.

Sunday's pancake breakfast will be from 8 - 10 a.m. Throughout the day activities will in performance by the Steele bingo. A leftover supper, all you can eat for $4, will end this two day event.

There will be plenty of camping sites available near the activities location.

CARSTAIRS

Bank puts Carstairs in modern time

by Janice Harrington

Carstairs has finally reached the 20th century thanks to the installation of a new banking machine in the Bank of Montreal.

The first banking machine to be installed in Carstairs, the new machine is getting lots of use according to Bank of Montreal Branch Manager Al Molnar.

"We are really quite pleased with the usage," he said. "It has even been more than we expected."

Installed around the middle of June, the banking machine was a somewhat unexpected surprise according to Molnar.

"The bank as a whole made the decision to place automatic banking machines in every branch over what I think is a 5 year period," he said. "They decided when they were placed on a priority basis and we were lucky enough to get one right away rather than waiting like I thought we would have to."

The bank recently ran a promotion over the weekend, a grand opening of sorts, serving out coffee and doughnuts and doing demonstrations for Carstairs customers who have done without a banking machine until this was installed.

"People have been getting by here without one for quite a long time," Molnar said. "But I think once they realize the advantages, the use will only continue to grow."

The Bank of Montreal has been operating in Carstairs for nearly 90 years.

SUNDRE / WESTWARD HO

Artist puts his work on view

by Janice Harrington

Driving out for a scenic view of Sundre and the beautiful mountains is even easy on rainy days thanks to the recent opening of a new art gallery.

Located north of Sundre, well known western and wildlife artist John Stone recently celebrated the grand opening of his new gallery highlighting many of his original paintings and prints.

Stone, who is rapidly gaining popularity for his realistic wildlife paintings, opened the new gallery at the end of last month. Complete with a relaxing area to drink tea and coffee and to chat with the artist and his wife, the gallery shows some of Stone's work both for sale and from private collections.

Also on view is the original work chosen by Ducks Unlimited to be the sponsor print for Alberta, B.C. and the Northwest Territories. The work, an intimate view of a trio of wolves in acrylic, is used as a fundraiser for the group which works to create habitat for waterfowl native to the Canadian west.

The gallery is a bright, airy building built on to the Stone's home and is open during the summer months. A number of paintings and prints, inspired by Stone's travels throughout the magnificent Rocky Mountains, hangs in the three room gallery. Stone said he decided to build on the new gallery because of the number of visitors he was getting.

"We just keep getting more and more coming out each day," he said. "We really like it because it gives us a chance to sit down and talk with them. I really enjoy that part of it."

Stone, a former bus driver for the county, raises Arabians on his ranch land. He and his wife spend their winters in Arizona where much of Stone's work is created.

The gallery is located 9 1/2 miles north of Sundre, just past the James River Bridge, on Highway 22.

Ramblers plan for next season

Even though the middle of summer is upon us the Didsbury Senior Ramblers Hockey Club is deep in preparation for the upcoming season.

The Chinook Hockey League has already held meetings and is pleased to announce that applications have been received from 3 new teams for entry into league play this year.

Letters of entry have been submitted by Morley Tomahawks, Bashaw, and Millet, bringing the total number of teams to 8 subject to financial commitment for the upcoming season.

On paper the entries from both Bashaw and Millet should prove very strong and provide quite a challenge to existing teams in the coming year.

The Ramblers hope to lead a larger team this year combining with the return of many players from last year thus giving us a well rounded team to go with the explosive offence that the team was known for.

The team is pleased to announce that Bryan Latimer will be handling the head coaching duties this year and his experience as a player will combine with his strong dedication and knowledge to assist and strengthen the hockey team's performance this year.

The Ramblers are about to embark on a strong season ticket drive which they hope the fans will find attractive and exciting thus ensuring a strong turnout for the new season.

In addition to regular season ticket sales, the Ramblers are offering package deals that include game board squares (which allow the holder to win cash for period scores) as well as concession vouchers that are redeemable at all games. This combined with automatic entry into trip giveaways such as Reno, Nevada promised to make this a well subscribed and interesting option for purchasers.

Forms will soon be available and savings are in the 30-35 percent range - so be early and subscribe.

The Ramblers are once again looking for volunteers or persons interested in sitting on the executive for the coming year.

Any interested individuals should contact the present members of the team organization or call Mountain View Sports for more information.

Summer enjoyment

Didsbury offers a number of pick your own fruit and vegetable gardens perfect for spending a warm summer day. Customers get just picked freshness at reasonable rates. Garden owners strongly suggest customers who come to pick should wear hats and bring protection from the nasty bugs.

The sweetest strawberries are here

The sweetest strawberries are the ones you pick yourself. The taste of berries ripened on the plant and picked at their peak is a hands down winner! The number of people who have done the taste test is skyrocketing as attested to by the explosive growth in strawberry production here in Alberta. The number of acres of this nutritious, low calorie fruit has increased 1,000 percent in the last 10 years. Whether it is Pincher Creek or Fort McMurray, there is a strawberry patch somewhere nearby.

Most of the strawberry production in Alberta is offered for sale as U-Pick or ready picked at the farm gate or at a Farmers Market.

For those who have never been to a U-Pick before, it does not take long to pick several baskets of berries - enough to eat fresh and some leftover to freeze for winter or to make into jam. Many U-Pick operators offer additional entertainment for the whole family - a trout pond for fishing, nature trails, or picnic spots. Remember to bring a hat, some sunscreen and bug repellent. Always call ahead to be sure there are berries ready to pick on the day.

Berries should be picked with the leafy caps still attached and not washed until just before they are to be eaten - otherwise shelf life is greatly shortened. On a hot day, it is a good idea to bring a picnic cooler to transport your berries home.

Locally, a number of professional and hobby farmers offer not just strawberries, but a regular bounty of fruits and vegetables for self-picking. Closest in the county are McRae's Berry Farm near Crossfield (546-2175), Overwater Farms on Amerada Road (335-4690), Rosebud Creek Herbs and Produce near Olds (556-1392), Berry Delicious Market Garden (between Didsbury and Olds off Hwy. 2 (556-3837), Pearsons Berry Farm west of Bowden (224-3011) and Dandy Pick Fresh Produce west of Innisfail (227-6037).

These local growers offer strawberries, peas and cucumbers, among other fresh grown produce. Phone ahead to ensure an appointment.

Despite the dreary weather we have been receiving lately, there is one activity available to all ages at virtually any time - walking. Walking can be an adventure especially outdoors in a natural setting where one's senses may take over. Walking allows one to think about enjoyable things and memories.

Walking is healthy. If you need a remedy for stress, or boredom, walking may be it. It may help lower your blood pressure.

sure and cholesterol. As a virtually injury free activity, walking may provide therapy for injured muscles and troubled feelings. Walking keeps you flexible and strengthens your bones, muscles, tendons and ligaments which support joints. Strengthening your bones can help prevent and control osteoporosis. Walking also increases the body's demand for oxygen which makes the heart, lungs and muscles work more efficiently.

So gather rain gear, running shoes and nap sack, take a nature walk or walk to work or school. Make walking a regular and fun part of your day.

Airshow planned in Red Deer

Thousands of Albertans are already busy preparing for their annual pilgrimage to central Alberta to take in the 10th Annual Red Deer International Airshow. The skies over Red Deer will be filled with the thunder of military jets and precision aerobatics, as this once a year aviation extravaganza gets under way Saturday, July 31, and Sunday, August 1, 1993.

The 1993 Airshow has been billed as the "hottest show yet". The pride of the Canadian military, the Snowbirds Demonstration Team, will be making their sixth visit to Red Deer to entertain the whole family. This year's team consists of two young pilots whose roots are right here in central Alberta.

There will be several firsts at the Red Deer airshow this year, thanks to the help of the Canadian Armed Forces. The public will have an opportunity to see military aircraft up close as a result of a portable Arrestor Gear. This unique gear allows certain types of aircraft to take off and land on a short runway such as we have at the Red Deer Industrial Airport.

Returning by popular demand is Les Shockley and his triple-jet engine truck Shockwave. This fantastic machine holds several world speed records and driver/pilot Les Shockley will pit his speed and driving skills against those of one of our airborne performers.

Al Pietsch is bringing his unique collection of aircraft and will provide five separate performances. For those who like the more sophisticated aerobatics, Wayne Handley will perform extremely high energy stunts in his black and red aircraft the Raven.

As a result of careful planning and hard work, a number of aircraft never before seen in central Alberta will be displayed for your viewing enjoyment.

This year will see the largest contingent of military and civilian aircraft flying and on static display in the history of the show. As a result of careful planning and hard work, a number of aircraft never before seen in central Alberta will be displayed for your viewing enjoyment. In many cases the pilots will be manning their displays and will be happy to brag about their own particular aircraft.

Admission prices have been held at the 1991 level. Advance tickets (Adult - $8, Seniors/Children 6-12, $5) are available at Parkland Savings and Credit Union branches, Japan Camera Centres, Alberta Treasury Branches and Canada Safeway in Red Deer, Camrose and Wetaskiwin. Tickets are also available at Ticketmaster.

If you plan on spending the weekend in Central Alberta, there is plenty of camping on site at $8 per night (no hookups). Plan on staying until Monday and enjoy Heritage Day festivities at Heritage Park.

The Airshow Association has made some rule changes this year to make the entire weekend more enjoyable for our four-legged friends as well. NO PETS ARE ALLOWED ON THE AIRSHOW GROUNDS. Any pets found unattended in vehicles will be removed, and their owners may be liable for prosecution. Several boarding kennels are available in Red Deer.

Royal Tyrrell Museum introduces public excavation program

This summer, hundreds of Royal Tyrrell Museum visitors will find out what it's like to be part of a real dinosaur dig. You could be one of them.

For the first time, the Royal Tyrrell Museum near Drumheller offers Day Digs. The chance to visit a dinosaur quarry and be part of a team that excavates fossils for scientific research. Learn about palaeontology and how to uncover dinosaur fossils that date back 65 million years.

If you just want to have a look - take in a Dig Watch. Catch a 90-minute guided tour to the excavation site where you'll see the dig in progress. Dig Watch buses will leave the Museum at regular intervals throughout the day.

Hosted by the Royal Tyrrell Museum, these programs run throughout July and August. Reservations are recommended. The cost for a Day Dig is $75 for adults, and $50 for youth aged ten to 15. Lunch is included. The cost for a Dig Watch is only $8 for adults and $6 for children under 16.

Operated by Alberta Community Development, the Royal Tyrrell Museum is Canada's only museum devoted exclusively to palaeontology. Located six kilometres northwest of Drumheller, the Museum is open 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily until Labour Day.

Railway Days ahead at Heritage Park

On Saturday, July 24th and Sunday, July 25th, Heritage Park pays tribute to Western Canada's exciting steam era during 'Railway Days'.

There's something for every member of the family including a miniature train for children to ride, model rail displays, musical entertainment, and a 'hands-on' telegraph service. Climb aboard the Park's impressive collection of railway cars, for a ride behind a real thundering steam locomotive and enjoy a railway adventure that will delight everyone!

Saturday, July 24th will be highlighted by a vintage car display. 150 antique automobiles will be featured by the 'Model A' Ford Club of America Northwest.

On Sunday, dress the kids in hobo or railway costumes to participate in the old fashioned parade at 2:30 and the little hobos' picnic at 3:30.

Heritage Park is open daily from 10:00 to 6:00 with direct shuttle service available from Calgary's Heritage LRT Station from 11:00 to 6:00.

REVIEW

Serving the County of Mountain View

The Backyard Vacation

by Janice Harrington

While experts are still debating whether or not the recession is over, the majority of us are still feeling its effects in our pocketbooks. There's just not as much money floating around in bank accounts these days to fund that dream vacation to the Maritimes or south of the border. But after working long hours all winter, many of us are ready for a vacation, and with this guide, we can tell you exactly how to find the vacation you want at a price you can afford.

The idea is to stay right in your own county. There are loads of activities and place to visit right here in the County of Mountain View with an added bonus. Because the fun is so close, you save money on gas, exchange rates, lodging, and you are helping to save the environment too.

While many people have lived in or around this county much of their lives, there are many things to do and see even they haven't heard of. We are blessed to live in one of the most beautiful and versatile areas in the province. If not in the whole country. From outdoor adventures to cultured shopping, everyone can find a wonderful way to get away for the summer right here.

Sundre

Sundre is the perfect place for the outdoor enthusiast. Nestled in the foothills of the Rocky Mountains, this area boasts the best fly fishing in North America. With plenty of camp grounds, guide companies, rivers and lakes, the Sundre area is the perfect vacation spot for those who long to get back to nature.

Tourism operators rave about the fishing experiences in the Sundre area. Home to Burnstick Lake, the James River, the Red Deer River, Burnt Timber Creek, Eagle Lake and Fallen Timber Creek, canoeists and fishermen can expect a fruitful and scenic experience. In the lakes and rivers, fishermen can find perch, pike, brown trout, brook trout, bull and cutthroat trout and mountain whitefish. Surrounding the lakes and rivers are a myriad of wildlife as well. Elk, moose, deer, cougar, foxes, coyotes and a variety of birds fill the forest making the area a prime hiking and nature photography destination. Campers can find a wide range of choices for their vacation in this area, right from RV luxury to hacking out a spot in the middle of the forest. As crown land, much of the Sundre area is free for campers and hikers to explore. Gazetted camp grounds are available through the Forestry and Wildlife department in excellent locations along the Red Deer River and Forestry Trunk Road. For more cozy camping styles, campers can book space in the county owned Westward Ho Park or in the private Tall Timber Leisure Park. Both areas cater to RV camping, with Tall Timber offering a summer full of activities including indoor swimming, laundromat facilities, horse shoe pits, volleyball court and a baseball diamond.

For those who prefer a little less rugged vacation, the town of Sundre offers a number of hotels and motels and restaurants as well as a movie theatre which offers up to date flicks every day except Wednesday. Even more luxurious are the inclusive western wilderness get away resorts located outside of Sundre. Both the Yellow Rose Ranch on Spring Lake and the Bull Dog Inn offer private rooms in a wilderness setting.

For those who tire of the outdoor life and are looking for a change of pace while in Sundre, a number of attractions are also on the menu. The Sundre Museum and Pioneer Village offers visitors the chance to transport back to the early days of Sundre with a log cabin from 1913 and a 1908 school house, all stocked with artifacts from the time period. Golfers can find some fun at the 18 hole Sundre Golf Club which also offers a restaurant, lounge, lessons and banquets facilities.

Nature lovers will also enjoy a rainy day looking at wildlife in a different perspective in Sundre: from the canvas of western and wildlife artist John Stone. Stone has a gallery located 9 1/2 miles north of Sundre featuring walls full of his colorful and detailed work. Ducks Unlimited chose one of Stone's pieces as their sponsor print for this year. Tea and coffee are always available at the gallery, along with excellent conversation.

Sundre also offers a get away possibility for large groups at Noranne's Beaver Lodge. A private residence, the lodge caters to groups of 12 or more, especially business groups, during the fall, winter and spring.

For vacationers looking for a guided wilderness vacation, Sundre is a perfect spot. A number of outfitting companies, such as Alberta Frontier Guiding and Outfitting offer trail riding trips, white water rafting, wilderness camping and photo trips for the experience of a lifetime in the magnificent Rockies.

Olds

For a more indoor style vacation, the Olds area offers a cosmopolitan get away experience. Well filled with restaurants of the sit down and fast food variety, Olds offers wonderful educational types of vacation possibilities.

The largest feature in the Olds area is the well-known agricultural college, Olds College. Established at the turn of the century, the college has all the most up to date farming type of facilities which visitors are more than welcome to tour. The grounds of the college alone are a gardeners delight with designs which are created through the college's landscape management department. The college offers walking tours, courses, a wide range of animals and specialized activities and hope to offer even more in the upcoming year.

For shoppers, Olds has a variety of stores, from clothing to hardware. Book lovers will thoroughly enjoy the Olde Library Bookshoppe, a general bookstore located in 1909 building

Fore!

There's nothing like a great view to go along with a great golf game, and that is exactly what the Water Valley Golf and Country Club offers. Located in a forested area along the foothills, the course has manicured green set inside a sea of trees.

originally used as a Bank of Commerce. The building has been restored and includes an original fireplace for buyers to relax and ponder their choices. Along with books, the store also offers art supplies, easy listening music, collector plates and stuffed toys.

For shoppers who love the luxury of country life and the intrinsic artistic nature of home made crafts, Touchstone Gallery is a must see. Stuffed with pottery, sewing, jewellery, wicker, pewter, bath and beauty supplies, Touchstone also features local artisans' work. The store is open Monday through Saturday.

Athletics are not left out in Olds. Swimming, golf and bowling are all available in the town. The outdoor swimming pool is open 7 days a week with lessons and Aquasize classes offered everyday. The 18-hole Olds Central Highlands golf club offers two styles of design. The front 9 holes are in the Scottish style while the back nine are a traditional design. Lessons, a club house, pro shop, and driving range are also offered.

The Mountain View Museum offers indoor entertainment in Olds. Open in the summer from Monday to Friday, the museum offers a view of Olds from the time of its native inhabitants to the present day.

Didsbury

The Didsbury area is a treasure trove for one of the most enjoyable stays away from home, the bed and breakfast. With three different b&b's to choose from, travellers can enjoy a wonderfully cozy stay in a personable, safe and affordable way.

The Ausenhuis Bed and Breakfast offers visitors an chance to stay in a cape cod style home east of Didsbury. Walking and cycling trails, reading, an outdoor barbecue, gazebo and a pleasant garden are some of the features offered.

A more rural experience is offered at Westway Hideaway. Operated by a working farm family, the bed and breakfast overlooks the beautiful Rosebud Coulee and offers raspberry picking in season, a fireplace and lots of room to wander.

In town, Pengary House is located in a renovated historic house along with a wonderful tea room. On 3/4 of an acre, the Pengary House has a wonderfully landscaped garden and gazebo and private sitting room. It is close to all the amenities in the town.

For things to do in town, Didsbury has some wonderful and unique shopping experiences. Owl Leather Works offered genuine handmade saddles and other leather goods along with western style clothing and gift wear.

Interior Magic offers everything for creating a country home, including collectibles, dish sets, bath and beauty aids, gifts and cards. Gourmet coffee is sold as part of the warm and relaxing atmosphere.

Didsbury also boasts a brand new indoor swimming facility as part of a large recreational complex. The swimming pool features a hot tub, and very shortly, a steam room. Lessons and public swimming along with Aquasize classes are offered everyday in a tropical atmosphere complete with a gigantic beach scene wall mural painted by local artist Ruth Jepson.

For a more intimate look at Ruth Jepson's work, visitors can book an appointment to visit her gallery at the Corner Studio. The gallery shows off Jepson's own work and commissioned portraits.

Didsbury

The Didsbury Museum is another must see for visitors to the area. Located in an old brick school house which has been lovingly restored, the museum offers a look at Didsbury history including two floors of artifacts from businesses, community groups and families which have helped to build the community.

For outdoor pursuits, Didsbury has one of the most beautiful and well kept camp grounds, located in the lush Rosebud Coulee just east of the town. The camp ground is open for tents and RVs and offers showers and firepits.

A local ranch offers guided wilderness rides and camping at their camp near Banff Park. Johnson's Ranching, owners of Barrier Mountain Outfitters, offers gourmet meals to go along with their day and longer riding trips from May to September. The camp has accommodations ranging from tents to cabins. Locally they operate a tack shop which offers everything for riding, both for pleasure and competition.

Carstairs

Carstairs offers a pleasant blend of outdoor pursuits and indoor amenities. This is an agricultural community proud of its heritage. For museum goers, the Carstairs area offers two very different views of the area's past. Custom Woolen Mills is a working museum featuring the only full wool processing plant in western Canada. The mill features antique carding machines, spinning mules, a knitting machine and other hand-made machinery. They also sell carded wools, knitting yarns, comforter and batts.

The Roulston Museum, located in Carstairs, highlights the local pioneer history. The museum itself is housed in the Knox Presbyterian Church annex named after a former minister of the church. It is attached to the first church in Carstairs which was built in 1901. A full view of a working homestead is also available for view. The McCraig House was moved onto the museum's land complete with artifacts dating from the era.

Also, for lovers of the exotic, Pasu Farm, located southwest of Carstairs offers a shop full of imported jewellery, carvings and other items along with their fare of woolen goods. The farm, another dedicated to sheep, also offers an interpretive centre and tea room.

Carstairs also offers many restaurants and places to stay including the Temarest Bed and Breakfast. Located in an old English Tudor house, the b&b boasts an old-fashioned country inn atmosphere, a spacious dining room for breakfast and a lounging area.

For outdoor pursuits, visitors can golf a full 18 holes at the Carstairs Golf and Country Club and then enjoy time in the new club house which offers a lounge and pro shop, or visitors can book sport shooting or tours of a pheasant farm at Silver Willow. Located west of Carstairs, Silver Willow offers clay shooting, hunting and an environmentally sensitive club house boasting home cooked meals and catering. Tuesday and Wednesday are tour days for groups who would like to book a tour of the farm's facilities.

are a scenic must for local travellers. The area is another treasure trove for outdoor enthusiasts, but also boasts some of the more luxurious places to stay.

Spruce Hollow Bed and Breakfast, located north of Cremona, offers scenic hiking and flower identifying tours in 300 acres of forest. The owners are happy to set visitors up with wildflower or mushroom books for exploring. The b&b also offers a separate cabin for full privacy and a varied breakfast menu.

A more rugged place to stay in the area is the Anderson Valley Ranch, 2 miles east of Water Valley. The area offers lots of room for tents and RVs along the Little Red Deer River and Silver Creek. They also offer hay rides, hourly riding, barbecues, barndances, riding lessons day rides complete with meals.

Golfers will delight in the Water Valley Golf and Country Club. One of the most scenic courses in Alberta, the club is located in a heavily forested area, perfect for those working on their slice. Currently 9 holes, the club is expanding to 18 with hopes of opening the full course this fall. The club also offers a restaurant, lounge, putting green, driving range and lounge.

Another shop perfect for country home lovers is Long Winter Country Crafts. Located in the middle of Water Valley in a log cabin style store, the shop is chock full of collectibles, kitchen accessories, local country crafts, furniture, dried flowers and baby gifts. The shop is a wonderful destination for a day drive and is open Wednesday through Sunday.

Throughout the county, a number of camp grounds are available all through the summer including Bottrel Park, Cremona Camp ground, Fallen Timber Recreational area, Clipperly Pond camp ground, O.R. Hedges Park in Olds and the Carstairs camp ground. Hotels and motels are also available for those interested in more comfortable vacations.

Whichever destination you choose or whether you prefer rugged or luxurious, taking a vacation in your backyard offers a full range of things to do and see.

PERSONALITIES

Jean Craven - tennis anyone?

by Elaine Wilson

Jean Craven is one lucky lady. While scores of people around the globe impatiently count the minutes until they can escape from their workplace to engage in activities they really enjoy, Jean is having a ball. It may be a tennis ball, a racket ball or a baseball, it just depends on the season.

"I just love sports," she says, "Sports and travel are my life."

Born and raised in northwest England near Manchester, Jean credits her father with encouraging early participation in an endless array of sports. From the age of 7 she took part in various team sports including cricket, field hockey and tennis. In her native England she reached what Albertans would label provincial level play in tennis. She went on to obtain coaching and officiating qualifications.

From there she went on to teach tennis in the Bahamas and eventually in Canada.

"I began as a player," she notes, "I started playing tournaments and club play when I was 8. I could hit anything, whatever it was. I played provincial level in cricket and full international in field hockey. In tennis I've got national coaches certification program level three. I think there are only about 500 level three's in Canada."

Something about Canada caught her fancy during Canadian studies as a teenager. Despite having trekked to the four corners of the world, a trip to Canada in the 60's convinced her Canada was where she wanted to be and she applied for Canadian citizenship.

"I had one relative in Canada that I visited," she says. "I just liked it so much I kept coming back. It was too 'dear' so I taught high school in Windsor originally."

After a trip back to England she headed to the Bahamas where she taught for three years. A year of touring America was followed by a trip back to England, after which she returned to Canada.

"I came to Didsbury in 1978," she relates. "Two things brought me to Alberta. One was the mountains. I'm a mountain lover. The other was a job at Olds College. This is my home now."

The position at Olds College where she was a liaison for international students was the genesis for a gratifying winter career she has hand crafted and honed to a degree that her instruction has been adopted for use by international sports figures and coaches. Her series of instructional seminars, painstaking researched and devised for practical use, is geared toward reducing culture clashes while optimizing skill levels often drained by the stress of 'fitting in'.

Only one year away from her doctorate, Jean has had several works published. Her work as an author and an advisor notwithstanding, she is one of the top ranked tennis coaches in the province and nothing gives her more pleasure than working with athletes who show promise and drive.

Former students have advanced to respected levels in the world of tennis, but Jean says Alberta tennis players, especially those situated in rural areas, are hampered by lack of facilities and a short season.

"It's very difficult in Alberta because here it's a 'summer only' sport and if you don't play twelve months of the year you don't usually reach the higher levels. However much talent you've got, unless someone can keep you going all winter by driving you to Calgary or Edmonton where they have indoor facilities, you're facing a seven or eight month layoff. It's very frustrating. It drives me absolutely nuts, and I drive Tennis Alberta nuts because there should be a system for the rural areas where promising kids get travel grants to get regular access to indoor courts through the winter."

Jean maintains that most people can play tennis, but future champions seem to share a number of distinctive attributes.

"They have to have that competition spark and be tough enough and determined enough to overcome the obstacles of living in rural Alberta. They've got to have that 'extra something', self control, determination and physical ability. And they've got to enjoy it. If they don't enjoy it, they're not going to go through all that needs to be done. Who's going to get up and train at four o'clock in the morning if you don't like what you're doing?"

"I always recommend that people choose a team sport and an individual sport when they're young," Jean advises. "As people grow up, fewer and fewer want to do team sports. You can get ten or twelve people together easily when you're ten or twelve yourself. You can even do it pretty easily when you're twenty-two. But it's not so easy when you're thirty-two and it's very tough when you're forty-two - and when you're fifty-two, forget it! You need an individual sport and that's what happened with me, it's a normal progression. I like a lot of sports. I like direct competition rather than skiing or motor racing against a clock, where all you see is a car going round and round and round and not much else. But I'll watch virtually any sport. I've played about 14, and I can intelligently watch another 14 on the television, and then I've got a vague clue about another 14 - I just love sports, you know?"

Her gift for immediately grasping and excelling at most sports often surprises and entertains people. An offer by a friend to introduce her to racketball a few years back still amuses her when she recalls how she listened to a recitation of the rules of the game and was handed a racket.

Top of her game

Jean Craven puts some of her tennis students through the paces at the Didsbury Elks tennis courts. A long time player, she also coaches for Tennis Alberta.

"My friend stopped playing and looked at me and said, 'I thought you said you'd never played racketball before!' Because," she said with a smile, "I beat her that first game."

Another unsuspecting friend invited her to join in a game of softball.

"She asked me the same thing - 'Are you sure you've never played before?' Stick something in my hand and say 'hit that', and I'll hit it."

In the winter, sport consulting research contracts keeps her busy but during the summer tennis season, you'll be lucky to catch her during a frantic pace of coaching, umpiring, and refereeing for Tennis Alberta.

Coaching is something she loves and maintains two basic elements sustain her enthusiasm and interest in the sport of tennis.

"I like to see people starting something that will probably last them all their lives. I think it's a good sport for fitness and a great sport for families. It's not expensive, you don't need a lot of equipment. Giving people pleasure," she concludes, "is what has her hooked. 'If there's no laughs or smiles when I'm coaching, to me, I've failed. It's got to be fun.'"

CORNER OF INTELLECT

A month of many faces

Maybe your favorite parts of July are picnics and holiday fireworks, but July is much more than that:

• An exciting time — July is officially named "Anti-Boredom Month." Since there are so many fun things to do during July, it's certainly an appropriate name.

• Not just fireworks — You may think it's just a day of fireworks and picnics, but Independence Day is very significant. It commemorates the signing of the Declaration of Independence by the Continental Congress on July 4, 1776.

• Flowers in your salad — You probably know that July brings in a variety of beautiful flowers for everyone to enjoy. But did you know that ancient Greeks ate violets? They did...the same way we eat spinach!

• Holiday traditions — In 12th-century Germany, it was customary to ring bells on July 4th. To get the loudest sound possible, men actually wore bells on their clothes!

• We all scream — Ice cream is such a popular treat that a day was actually named in honor of it. This year, National Ice Cream Day falls on Sunday, July 18th.

• Going places — July 20th is the anniversary of the first landing on the moon. In 1969, two U.S. astronauts remained on the lunar surface 21 hours, 36 minutes and 16 seconds.

Freaky weather facts

When you think of July's weather, sunshine and clear skies come to mind. But it's not always that perfect. Here are some bizarre weather-related events that have happened during July:

• July 6, 1928 — The second largest hailstone in the U.S. crashed to earth.

It weighed 1.5 pounds, had a 5.5-inch diameter, and a circumference of 17 inches. It landed near Porter, Nebraska.

• July 26, 1977 — In Santa Barbara, California, 230 homes were destroyed by a brush fire with northeasterly winds gusting up to a vicious 90 miles per hour. Believe it or not, the fire was started when a kite string and spool became entangled in power lines near a canyon.

• July 29, 1981 — Lightning struck a tree in Alabama and then spread along the ground.

The result? Fifty head of cattle were immediately killed.

• Odd weather trivia — A flower's perfume is strongest just before a storm. As a storm nears, the air surrounding the center of low pressure is forced upward, releasing odors.

DID YOU KNOW?

MERCURY, USED IN THERMOMETERS, IS ALSO KNOWN AS QUICKSILVER. ALTHOUGH IT IS A LIQUID, IT IS ALSO A METAL AND BECOMES SOLID WHEN ITS TEMPERATURE IS REDUCED TO -39°C.

FROM 1975 TO 1980, THE USE OF MONEY WAS COMPLETELY ABOLISHED FROM KAMPUCHEA (FORMERLY CAMBODIA).

YOU MAY HAVE HEARD OF THE GIANT PANDA, BUT DID YOU KNOW ABOUT THE RED PANDA? THIS CREATURE IS ONLY ABOUT TWO FEET LONG, HAS A RINGED TAIL LIKE A RACCOON'S AND LIVES IN THE TREES OF THE HIMALAYAS AND CHINA.
